University of Leeds Teaching Practice

Dear Patient,

This practice is linked with Leeds University School of Medicine and the staff here are helping to train our next generation of doctors. As part of this training there may be a student present with the doctor or nurse in your consultation.

Seeing patients is a vital part of their training. Medical Students follow the same standards in behaviour and confidentiality as your own GP.

However if you feel you would not be happy to have a student present please tell our reception staff and this can be arranged.

Thank you for your help, without your co-operation we would not be able to produce the doctors of the future.
